HARVEST
COALITION

- Supporting Farmers
- Supporting Consumers
- Building Healthy Communities

Cascade Harvest Coalition is your regional food and farming resource center. We work collaboratively with farmers, local governments, businesses, other non-profits and the public to grow new farmers, make it easier to find and buy local farm products, and develop long- and short-term strategies for creating a healthier, more sustainable food and farming future in Washington State.

Puget Sound Fresh is Cascade Harvest Coalition's farm product marketing program. The Puget Sound Fresh program aims to:

- 1) Help consumers easily find locally produced food and farm products, and
- 2) Help local farmers successfully market their products.

How CSAs work:

Here's how it works: you buy a "share" from a local farm, in return you receive a box of farm-fresh produce every week during the growing season. The farm benefits from your financial and community support. You benefit by receiving the best local produce and getting to know your farmer. It's a unique and special relationship that builds community, supports our farmers and gives you first-pick of peak-freshness Puget Sound Fresh products.

Each CSA program is unique: some deliver boxes to your home or a central pick-up location; some require "on-farm pick-up". Some offer extra add-ons, like eggs or flowers; some are produce-only. Some have installment payment plans; some require payment up-front at the start of the season; and some offer weekly pay-as-you-go options.

This guide offers information on both CSAs and Home Delivery Services. Two types of CSAs are included: traditional CSAs that grow most or all of the food on their farm and hybrid models that grow some food and source some food from neighboring farms or farms outside the area. Home Delivery Services are not CSAs, because they do not farm, but often buy food from local farms.

Join a CSA! It's easy:

- Select a program that interests you.
Some things to consider: farm location, size and price of share, delivery or pick-up options, growing practices, and on-farm participation opportunities.
- Next, contact the farm.
A phone call to the farm you selected is often the best way to find out about signing up for the program. Some farms also offer online registration.
- Finally, sign up!

Participating in a Community Supported Agriculture program is a great way to support local farmers and, in return, for local farmers to support you.

About this publication:

This publication was printed on recycled, FSC (Forest Stewardship Council) certified paper. When you see this symbol, you know the paper comes from a forest managed in an environmentally responsible, socially beneficial and economically viable way. You can have confidence that the paper you see is exactly as stated, as there is a rigorous chain-of-custody that accompanies the wood and paper from its creation to delivery to the customer.

This FSC-certified paper has been certified by the following printer who has also partially subsidized the cost of printing this brochure.

Look for Local!

Puget Sound Fresh:
helping you eat local all year long.

Puget Sound Fresh farms are located within the 12 Puget Sound counties and are known for excellent growing conditions, good land stewardship practices and exceptional farm products.

To find out more about Puget Sound Fresh and local farms, visit www.pugetsoundfresh.org or call (206) 632-0606

Puget Sound Fresh is a program of Cascade Harvest Coalition with support from King County and King Conservation District, farms and farmers markets throughout the region, and additional help from Snohomish and Pierce Counties.
